Re: 2020 Membership Renewal

December 1st 2020

Dear Member/Donor:

Your membership continues to be vital to the progress and mission of Seno K/RLT Conservancy it is our sincere hope that you will again support our vision in 2021. This year has provided us with a great opportunity to immerse ourselves in nature and remind ourselves that we are a part of it, rather than separate from it. We've enjoyed seeing large numbers of people visiting our trails during the year, taking solace in the outdoors during otherwise chaotic times. We welcome all our visitors, old and new, and will continue to provide access to these spaces for everyone in the new year.

Our 11-member Board continues to change and grow despite the many struggles of 2020. We've continued on our road to Land Trust Accreditation, monitoring all 19 of our easements and engaging our Board in the process. We have welcomed a new educator onto our staff as well, award-winning naturalist Nancy Carlson, who will help us in our mission to bring environmental and natural resources education to our community in new and more accessible ways.

We have so much to be excited about moving into 2021, such as educational programs hosted at our conservation subdivisions like our Bluebird Trail at Woodland Waters done in collaboration with Hoy Audubon. Or our handful of classes to be hosted through the Wisconsin Natural Resources Foundation including a kayak/canoe trip at Jean McGraw Nature Preserve, maple sugaring, and a beginner birder class. These are just sampling of future events we hope to bring to life in 2021. We also plan to launch our community environmental education program, bringing education to parks and community centers in Kenosha and Racine. Our hope is that this will allow many people who may not have access to our Woodland Center to enjoy the natural world around them and build meaningful connections with nature.

We feel that this year has made it all the more indicative that there is unfathomable importance in the sustainable practice of both land preservation and conservation of natural resources, but also connection; whether between each other or between people and nature. Teaching the vital significance of these practices and facilitating these connections for the well-being of the planet is our mission, and we hope you will share this passion through your contribution. Please donate now using the envelope provided, or by PayPal or Credit Card via our website, senokrlt.org. We use a simple calendar basis, with all 2021 renewals due in December 2020 or early 2021. We hope that you and yours continue to be safe, be well, and are as excited as us about the future of Seno K/RLT Conservancy.

Sincerely,

Stacy Santiago – Land Protection Administrator

Ron Rasmussen (President), Kevin Nolan (Vice President), Janet Lesko (Treasurer), Mark Lesko (Secretary)
